

It is my understanding that the FCC has proposed a LPFM program which would take priority over current translator service. This program would end our K-Love station which our family now listens to most of the time. This station provides wholesome music which our two teenage boys listen to instead of most popular music. To stop national FM stations like K-Love would end wholesome music choice from the marketplace. K-Love and stations like it need a place in our society to help combat the moral decline in our society. And we wonder what is wrong!
